The newly remodeled Neptune Theatre has its grand opening this weekend with a variety of events, including one sure to appeal to nostalgic former residents of the U District: a free Sunday screening of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" — a longtime midnight staple at the theater, back in the day. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., show at 7:30 p.m., with costume contests, free stylings from hair and makeup artists and props. Go and do the Time Warp, again. 1303 N.E. 45th St., Seattle (www.stgpresents.org or ☎ 206-682-1414).

SIFF presents two mini-festivals this weekend. The Festival of New Spanish Cinema, screening at SIFF Cinema at McCaw Hall, offers a selection of eight films Friday through Sunday, ranging from the musical comedy "With or Without Love" to the horror-cult film "Who Can Kill a Child?" to the closing-night film "The Great Vázquez," a biopic about '60s Barcelona cartoonist Manuel Vázquez Gallego. Tickets are $10 ($9 students/seniors).

And, a few steps away at the new SIFF Film Center is a series of films on architecture and design, happening in tandem with the Seattle Design Festival (www.seattledesignfestival.org). Eight documentaries will be shown, including the Seattle premieres of "Contemporary Days: The Designs of Lucienne and Robin Day," "Eye Over Prague," "How Much Does Your Building Weigh, Mr. Foster," "New Urbanism" and "Space, Land and Time: Underground Adventures with Ant Farm." Series passes are $50 ($30 SIFF members); individual tickets are $10. For more information about either of these series: www.siff.net or ☎ 206-324-9996.
