The University of South Carolina Upstate has partnered with the Spanish Film Club, an organization that facilitates the staging of Spanish and Latin American film festivals in universities and cultural institutions in North America.

USC Upstate was one of 43 universities nationwide to receive a grant from Pragda to organize a Spanish Film Club series on campus.

The project's ultimate goal is to introduce students and a generally broader audience to the cultures of these territories and to create a stable exhibition platform of the latest Spanish and Portuguese language cinema in the U.S. and Canada.

With the American audience in mind, all films feature English subtitles.

Five films will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesdays in October in Tukey Theater, on the lower level of the library. The showings are free. The films are as follows: "Chico & Rita," Tuesday; "Even the Rain," Oct. 16; "The Fish Child," Oct. 23; and "Post Mortem," Oct. 30.

For more information, contact Shannon Polchow, assistant professor of Spanish, at 503-5654 or spolchow@uscupstate.edu. For further information about the Spanish Film Club, visit www.pragda.com/spanishfilmclub.
